

THE GLEANINGS FOUNDATION presents:

WINTER WORKSHOP 2013
Seeing Your Humanity From The Center Of Your Soul
January 25 - 27, 2013

Have you ever questioned why your life does not always reflect what you feel it should look like? Are there gaps in your experiences that keep you wondering what it would take to live a life in alignment with your soul?

This weekend, through the work of Nina Zimbelman and The Gleanings Foundation, participants will get to see themselves as their soul sees them, including a map of how we, as humans, put up blocks to our life experiences and to the power we have not yet learned to embrace in our lives.

Using views both from a soul and human level, this weekend is geared to aligning our soul's journey with our human experience. The intent of the weekend is to allow you to experience your humanity through the fabric of your soul's journey.

When the soul and the human are fully at one, it is then that our love, power, wisdom and truth can embark on an abundant phase of the journey that is fulfilling and clear and answers the questions of the "why's" of our life.

Join us Friday evening, January 25th at 6pm for dinner when the workshop begins. The weekend concludes Sunday, January 27th by 1pm.

Cost (Includes workshop, meals and snacks)*
